

ENERGY CONSUMER PROTECTION PLEDGE

I, Scott Nale, pledge to support "all-of-the-above" energy and environmental policies that ensure households and businesses in communities across my state have access to affordable, reliable energy to help meet their basic needs. Regardless of political affiliation or income level, it is important to stand behind energy development that fuels our homes, the economy, and aids in national security, all while sustaining our environment - because we can, and must do both.

WHAT IS THE ENERGY CONSUMER PROTECTION PLEDGE?

The Energy Consumer Protection Pledge is a way to express your support for “all-of-the-above” energy and environmental policies that benefit American families, farmers, and small businesses across your state.

The Pledge was designed by Consumer Energy Alliance (CEA) so consumers can easily identify candidates and elected officials who believe:

- Families, especially those living at or below the poverty line, and businesses need access to affordable, reliable energy;
- Comprehensive energy and environmental policies will encourage both responsible energy development and conservation of our environment; and
- American innovation and investment in our workers will allow us to achieve energy independence.

We at CEA believe in supporting responsible energy development and a healthier environment – the two cannot continue to be partisan issues. And, like most Americans, CEA believes that just saying “no” is not a solution to ensure access to affordable, reliable energy for our families, our businesses and our communities.

Join us as we work to bridge the partisan divide in an effort to sustain a balanced energy future, while also safeguarding our environment for generations to come.

Who is Consumer Energy Alliance?

Consumer Energy Alliance (CEA) is the leading U.S. consumer advocate in support of affordable, reliable energy for working families, seniors, and small businesses across the country.
